

Justice

Allah's name (we) begin with, the Most Affectionate, the Merciful

Justice is a concept, misconceived by many. There are people who have no idea as to what justice is. The justice for one should be the justice for many. There should not be any discrimination with regards to justice for a common man and the justice for a rich man. Though there are many definitions for justice, one can broadly say that Justice is putting everything in its place, keeping things where they belong. It should not change for a strong man or weak man, rich or poor, noble lineage or the opposite. If a man wronged women he should be punished and if a woman wronged a man she should also be punished. Today it makes the justice loving people gloomy to see that women are treated with such leniency in this regards that often they do wrong things and manage to get away with it. The times have moved on and woman is no longer weak and oppressed, the woman of this era is doing very well. If even today a blind eye is turned all the crimes of women and only men are punished; then we must admit that we have killed the very soul of justice with our own hands. Justice is the concept which provides peace of mind for everyone, knowing that for every single strand done by criminal; he will be held accountable for it. And this extends further from life, such as the system of Justice established by Islam. The concept of Hereafter and life after death and a Day of Judgment is actually absolutely what our conscience demand. This concept is the most accepted and asked by the very soul of Justice. Let me give an example of this,

If a good man was walking down a street and suddenly a robber caught him, the thug robbed and murdered him. Now, no one came to know about this and the thug got away. Years later the thug is now on his death bed. Now tell me if a person did bad deeds and took the lives of others, who is going to hold him accountable? This flawed judiciary system? Where giving a few green notes is enough to walk away unscathed!

This is where the conscience calls out for Justice and Islam is there for you, Islam says this person will be held accountable in his grave, he will be punished in the grave as well as on the Day of Judgment, Allah the almighty will hold him accountable and he will be shown every single deed he did. Finally he will be thrown into Hell, where he will burn for eternity. This is exactly what Justice calls out for, such people should burn in Hell fire, these anti-social elements, these goons whether man or woman, the system does not discriminate, if a woman commits murder the punishment is same and the same is for a man. Also if a man repents and wants to change his life and he is true in his repentance then Allah accepts his repentance and he can become a good person.

This is the balance which Islam has given to the world. This balance is unmatched and flawless. Also the people who have been wronged they must get something in return of their patience and Islam gives them the befitting reward, which is Paradise where they will dwell for the rest of their lives. If the world really wants to provide Justice to each and every person, there is only one way and that is the way of Islam.
